Employee Laptop Request — Journey Map

SCENARIO: Requesting, getting approval for, and receiving a new laptop

	Entice	Enter	Engage	Exit	Extend
	How does the employee become aware they can request a laptop?	What happens as they begin the request?	What happens during the core approval & fulfillment steps?	What happens as the process finishes?	What happens after the laptop is received?
Steps	Sees laptop policy during onboarding or on intranet	Opens Employee Center, searches 'Laptop Request'	Fills request form; Manager reviews and approves/rejects	Receives confirmation; IT prepares & ships the laptop	Laptop appears in Asset record; can request accessories
Interactions	HR onboarding docs, intranet banner	Employee Center portal (ServiceNow)	Catalog form, Flow approval, email/SMS notifications	Confirmation email, IT fulfillment team	Asset record, follow-up survey
Goals & Motivations	Help me know this option exists	Help me submit my request quickly	Help me get a fast, clear decision	Help me know when to expect my laptop	Help me get set up for ongoing needs
Positive Moments	Clear that IT equipment is quick to request	Simple, guided form is quick to fill out	Fast manager approval turnaround	Prompt confirmation email with timeline	Smooth handoff, asset already tracked
Negative Moments	Policy not well advertised to new hires	Unsure which laptop model to choose	No visibility into approval status, duplicate requests	Delay between approval and physical shipment	No easy way to request a replacement later
Opportunities	Promote the catalog item in onboarding checklist	Add model comparison guide on the request form	Add a status tracker and block duplicate open requests	Add shipment tracking notification	Add a follow-up survey and easy reorder link

Key Takeaways:

- Awareness of the laptop request option is inconsistent for new employees — promoting it during onboarding could increase adoption.
- The request form itself is simple and well received, but employees are sometimes unsure which laptop model fits their role.
- Manager approval turnaround is a bright spot, but employees have no visibility into status while waiting.
- The biggest friction point is the gap between approval and physical shipment of the laptop, with no tracking update in between.
- A short post-fulfillment survey and an easy reorder/accessory-request path could extend engagement after the laptop arrives.
